

Doctor Snow White Chicken

Written & Illustrated by Rachel A. DiNunzio

Doctor Snow White Chicken

Written & Illustrated by Rachel A. DiNunzio

Doctor Snow White Chicken was named after her beautiful snow white feathers.

For my super smart doctor friend, Emmy.

She was not only the kindest chicken in all the land, but the smartest chicken as well.

Placeholder for copyright information

After medical school, Doctor Snow White Chicken, along with the help of her seven frog nurses, built a small practice in the forest.

PLEASE WAIT HERE

At her practice, Doctor Snow White Chicken took care of all kinds of patients who came from near and far to receive her special care.

One morning, a young chicken named Henry was walking in the forest nearby.

Henry was getting hungry and thirsty from his long hike.

Luckily, he found some bushes filled with wonderful-looking strawberries!

Henry filled his arms with as many strawberries as he could hold.

And then, he gobbled them up!

After eating a few strawberries,
Henry felt incredibly sleepy.

You see, those wild strawberries that Henry found were none other than Strawberries Slepificus: poison strawberries known to put chickens into an un-wakable sleep!

Luckily for Henry, a couple of frog nurses, Flan and Tyran, were walking to work and noticed Henry asleep in the middle of the Strawberry Slepificus bushes.

They raced Henry to Doctor Snow White Chicken to be cured.

"DOC! We've got an emergency!" Flan cried.

"We found him by those Strawberry Slepificus bushes not too far from our office!"

Doctor Snow White Chicken examined the patient and concluded by his loud snoring that he was in fact in an un-wakable sleep.

Snow White and her team prepared a series of tests to try to wake Henry up.

First, they tried to wake Henry with a bucket of water, but that didn't work.

The last test was a Chicken Free Fall onto a pile of pillows.

But Henry didn't wake up.

Next, they tried to scare him, but Henry just stayed asleep!

Doctor Snow White Chicken read through all of her books, consulted with the top authorities and finally came across an old sheep who had once cured such a curse.

Doctor Lamb said to Doctor Snow White Chicken,

“In my travels I once came across a girl who fell into an un-wakable sleep after trying to sew a button onto her shirt...

The darn pin just pricked her, and poof! She fell into an un-wakable sleep.”

“So how did you wake her?” Doctor Snow White Chicken asked.

Well, there is an ancient medicine called, Pie Ziz Ah.

To make it you will need:

1. A hot fire
2. Ground wheat
3. Red orb fruit
4. Milk of a cow
5. Wild mushrooms!

"We can do this!"
said Doctor Snow White Chicken.

"We will get to it right away!"

Doctor Snow White Chicken and her team began preparing the ingredients following the ancient recipe very carefully.

They ground the wheat and added water to make it into a dough, they mashed the red orb fruit into a smooth paste, and grated the hardened milk into small pieces.

They finished their creation and placed it over the flames.

An amazing aroma spread through the air and into Henry's beak.

And then... Henry woke up!

"Thank you for saving me, Doctor Snow White Chicken!" Henry said.

"Say, would you like to go out to dinner some time to celebrate?"

The two new friends went out to share a celebratory meal.

They toasted under the stars, "To good health, new friends, and avoiding strange fruit!"

The End.